

SundayStyles

SUNDAY, MARCH 14, 2010

The New York Times

ON THE STREET

Bill Cunningham

In Paris

A fresh language for 21st-century dress popped up here and there last week during the Paris fashion shows. Three wearers of new designs from Céline (above, center) softened them with their own jackets. In a city of marvelously dressed women, long legs and high-high boots dominate. One saw the asymmetrical Dior New Look (bottom left), fake fur bubble skirts and full-blown Edwardians. Two men who looked as if they had just walked out of the Comédie-Française strolled the Tuileries, oblivious to the amazed public.

